Modesto Food Distributors, Inc.

Mission Statement

Established in 1972, Modesto Food Distributors, Inc. is a custom poultry supplier servicing the greater San Francisco Bay Area. We focus on individual customer needs, seeking long-term relationships that allow us to better anticipate and fulfill our customers' requirements. We work with customers to custom-tailor their orders, and each order is given careful attention and produced to customers' expectations. Key management staff is always available to work with our customers, and we maintain open phone lines and flexible delivery times to further strengthen our pledge to customer service.

Our established customer base facilitates our commitment to excellence by enabling us to stock a wide variety of fresh and frozen poultry as well as game birds, rabbits, ducks, cheese and other specialty products. We maintain close, personal relationships with our suppliers. Fresh chickens are delivered to us daily. In addition, our farm fresh game birds come directly from farmers and farmer cooperatives. While we have competitive pricing, we opt not for the quick sell as we are more concerned with quality - we therefore do not compromise our commitment to our customers with lower prices for inferior products. To further assist our pledge to customer satisfaction, we consistently exceed USDA requirements by keeping our plant and equipment modern and up-to-date, enabling us to provide the best quality products possible.

Types of Ready-to-Cook Chicken

Processed chickens may be classified into one of seven different USDA defined groups: broiler, roaster, capon, rock Cornish hen, rock Cornish fryer, hen and rooster.

Broiler: A young chicken usually 6-8 weeks old. A broiler may be of either sex and will be tender-meated. The dressed weight of whole birds will range from 2.85 to 4.50 pounds. Broilers are sometimes referred to as fryers.

Roaster: Roasters have the same general characteristics as broilers, except that their dressed weight will range from 4.75 to 7.50 pounds. Roasters are processed when they are 8-12 weeks old. Roasters are generally sold as whole birds.

Capon: A surgically desexed male chicken. Capons are grown to the ripe old age of 15 weeks. Dressed weights range from 6-9 pounds. Sometimes called The Christmas Bird, capons are meaty, flavorful, tender and highly regarded for holiday meal celebrations. Capons are marketed as whole birds.

Rock Cornish Hen: The offspring of a Cornish chicken or a Cornish chicken crossed with another breed of chicken. The Cornish hen is a young, immature chicken, usually 5-6 weeks old, with a dressed weight of not more than 2 pounds. (Poussin)

Rock Cornish Fryer: A cross between a purebred Cornish and a purebred Rock Chicken. Rock Cornish Fryers are young, of either sex, and will be tender-meated. The dressed weight will range from 1-2 pounds.

Hen: A mature female chicken. Chickens of this classification are generally spent hens. Referred to as fowl, hens may be further classified as heavy or light depending on their breed or weight. Hens may be used for stewing, baking or may be deboned for use in processed meats.

Rooster: A mature male chicken with coarse skin and toughened, dark meat. Roosters are generally spent breeders that are deboned for use in processed meats.
